

CARAM Asia Task Force on Migration, Health, HIV and Well-Being

Strategic Plan 2021 TO 2024

Throughout the migration cycle, governments of origin and sending countries treat migrant workers as a commodity. Their well-being and health rights are largely ignored. Migrant workers suffer from discrimination as reflected in health issues such as mandatory health and HIV testing with deportation, lack of access to HIV services and treatment, no information on health, limited access to health services, and poor working and living conditions.

Using various human rights and health rights frameworks, CARAM Asia developed the Migration, Health and HIV (MHH) programme by combining the previous Task Force on Empowering Migrants Living with HIV (TFEM) and the State of Health (SoH) Programme to focus on migrant workers' health rights. The objective of the MHH is to promote the health rights of migrants through reform of discriminatory policies and equity in provision and access of health services for migrant workers, including sexual and reproductive health and HIV.

This programme also pays special attention to the health and well-being of undocumented migrant workers, as well as documented migrants who are deported for health conditions, especially HIV. Empowerment of migrants living with HIV and their spouses to be meaningfully involved in the development, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of programmes and policies is an integral part of the MHH Task Force.

Objectives:

The objective of the Migration, Health, HIV and Well-Being Task Force is to promote the health rights and well-being of migrants by advocating to reform discriminatory policies and include migrant workers under all targets of SDG-3 on “Ensuring healthy lives and promoting Well-being for all at all stages”.

Key issues:

1. Mandatory HIV Testing and related deportation
